Headland Developments Wins Prestigious Best Low-Rise Residential Development Award

HONG KONG, April 11, 2016 – Headland Developments Limited announced today that it has won the iProperty Best Development Award 2015 for Best Low-Rise Residential Development, for its first residential development in the United Kingdom, The Franklin. With overwhelming support from consumers, agencies and leading industry professionals, The Franklin received the highest percentage of public votes and achieved the highest score in architectural design, spacial layout, special features and amenities. Last year Headland Developments won the same award for The Fountainside in Macau.

“We are extremely gratified to have been awarded the Best Low-Rise Residential Development accolade for The Franklin,” said John Gunning, Managing Director at Headland. “This marks our second year in a row winning this award from the iProperty group, and it validates our unique UK investment and development business model.”

“Winning this award reinforces our investors’ belief in our ability to select and develop projects that not only produce great returns but are also significant from a design and architectural standpoint,” said Paul Hill, Director at Headland.

Located in the village of Bourneville, Birmingham, the UK’s second largest city, ‘The Franklin’ is a landmark property development highlighting the best and most innovative development that Birmingham has to offer. Previously home to the headquarters of famous British confectioner Cadbury, ‘The Franklin’ represents a new concept of living that brings together the best of both worlds: contemporary living in a beautiful garden village environment, just minutes from Birmingham city centre.
